

Appendix A, McBride Handout, Evolution of Ethnogeriatrics and Selected Qualitative Outcomes, GSA, November 2015

Table 1. Filipino Americans: Significant dates and Periods in Immigration History

PERIOD	EVENTS	YEAR	US POP (IN 1000s)	HI* POP (IN 1000s)
17-18 th Century	Spanish Galleon Trade; Louisiana settlement California settlement
1900- 1920	Post Spanish-American War Brides Pensionado Act (students) Workers to Hawaii (sugar plantations) and Alaska (fishing and canning industry)	1910	3	3
		1920	27	21
1920- 1940	Workers to West Coast and Alaska ("stoop labor") Yakima Valley Incident (1928) Depression Watsonville Strike (1930) Anti-miscegenation Laws (1933) Tydings McDuffy Act (1934) Filipino Repatriation Act (1935) Cannery Union (1937)	1930	108	33
		1940	99	53
1940- 1960	WWII enlistment to USAFFE (First and Second Infantry Regiment) Post WWII War Brides Options for citizenship available for immigrants Rescission Act revoking promise of citizenship for enlistees in WWII Land lease available (1943) Philippine Independence (1946) California miscegenation law repealed (1948)	1950	123	61
1960- 1980	Immigration quota abolished (1965) Professionals immigration Filipino American identity movement Followers of children through family reunification program, US military personnel intermarriage Martial law regime in the Philippines (1972)	1960	181	69
		1970	337	95
1980 to present	Immigration Act Sec. 405 grants US citizenship to WWII Filipino veterans (1990) Court decision denying veterans benefits Older veteran immigration Correspondence brides End of martial law in the Philippines (1986) English only in workplace (1989) Closure of military bases in Philippines (1992) Dual citizenship for Filipino Americans (2003)	1980	774	109
		1990	1407	189

*HI - Hawaii

Reprinted with permission from Yeo, G., Hikoyeda, N., McBride, M., Chin, S-Y., Edmonds, M., & Hendrix, L. 1998, Cohort Analysis as a Tool in Ethnogeriatrics: Historical Profiles of Eight Ethnic Populations in the United States. Working Paper Series No. 12, Stanford Geriatric Education Center, Stanford University School of Medicine.